Regional Medical Director/Regional Department Head Laboratory Medicine & Pathology

The Regional Medical Director/Regional Department Head (RMD/RDH) of Laboratory Medicine & Pathology leads a large multidisciplinary department with more than 40 pathologists encompassing all aspects of diagnostic pathology including molecular techniques. The RMD also co-manages the FHA Laboratory Medicine service in a dyad relationship with the Operational leadership, which in turn, reports to Lower Mainland Laboratories and the Provincial Laboratory Medicine Service.

The RMD promotes excellence in diagnostic pathology (anatomic and clinical), and encourages participation in research. The RMD is also responsible for overall quality assurance in the department and is required to make regular reports to HAMAC and the Board of Fraser Health.

The RMD is responsible for regional medical care and practice standards, departmental credentialing, quality and utilization monitoring/improvement, departmental operations, academic affiliation, and regional physician resource planning.

The successful candidate must have prior leadership experience in a major division (e.g. anatomic pathology) or local hospital site.

This position reports to the Executive Medical Director, Physician Partnerships and Performance.

Preferred qualifications for the successful candidate:

- Eligibility for membership on the FH Medical Staff.
- Five (5) years leadership experience within the healthcare sector and experience in hospital based leadership.
- A Master's degree in health administration or business administration
- Additional leadership training
- Experience with budgetary and operational planning

This role will start on October 1, 2021 and compensation is based on the HEABC Medical Leadership – Profiles & Compensation for FFS Physicians. The stipend is paid under contract.

We look forward to hearing from you!
